1. Five thousand (?) Soviet troops are stationed in the Heiho (127-31,50-15) gold mine districts and are known to the people as the Gold Mine Protection Corps (金礦警備隊). The gold mines in these areas have been reopened by the Soviets.
2. The opening of gold mines in the Heiho area by the Soviets was done under the agreement known as the Soviet-Chinese Material, Commercial, and Mining Development Agreement, signed by the Chinese Communist representative CH'EN Yun (陳雲), and a Soviet representative, Rulawulov (spelling based on Chinese phonetization).
